

Ohio's 37th Division To Arrive This Weekend

Contracts To Be Let On 14.6 Miles Of County Freeway

LANSING — Contracts were opened for bids on Aug. 3 and will be opened on Aug. 19 on this 14.6 mile section of US-27 freeway (interstate route 75) in Crawford County.

On Aug. 3, low bidders were awarded a 4.8 mile section of four-lane divided US-27 from County Road 612 north to the Crawford-Oscoda County line. A special letting on Aug. 19, low bidders will be determined on two contracts for the remaining 9.8 miles. One calls for five miles of freeway between M-72 at Grayling north to M-93. This project includes interchanges at M-72, M-93, and M-100. The second project calls for 4.8 miles of freeway from M-93 north to County Road 612 including an interchange at County Road 612.

All three projects have a June 30, 1962 completion date. With these projects, almost 140 miles of four-lane divided US-27 between Lansing and Mackinac City—a distance of 220 miles—will be either in use or under construction.

Thirty-two miles are now open between Lansing and Ithaca and more than 105 miles will be under construction in Gratiot, Isabella, Clare, Roscommon, Crawford and Cheboygan counties.

The Arthur Woodens are having the trim on their home on Ionia street repainted.

The Vern Perry has resided their home on Park street.

The Jack Trudgens are adding an addition to their new home in AuSable Terrace on Ingham street.

The UHarely Russells have remodeled the interior of the building which they own on US-27.

The Sam Sherwoods are building a garage at their home.

Wesley Kumula is painting the trim on his garage and on his home on Maple street.

Dewey Bonar is completing a new garage at his home.

The new welfare offices which are to serve a five county area including Crawford County are being completed at the Thane Henderson Supply Company building on Huron street.

Leo Lovely is remodeling the interior of a house he owns on M-72 (the old Niederer place).

Engl Meisel is enlarging his home on Plum street.

Completion Date—June 30th, 1962.

This contract will provide the freeway roadways from the Crawford-Oscoda County line south to County Road 612. Later, this route will be designated Interstate route 75.

"At a special letting on Aug. 19, two more interstate 75 contracts will be let to extend this section roughly about 10 miles to Ithaca."

Contributions for the Woman's Club Flower Fund project last week were received from the Mercy Hospital Auxiliary $3.00, and from Ionia's Motel $5.00.

The total bill for the flowers planted was $400, plus $12 tax, and the for the plants and vines was $10.50. All plants not used were returned for credit on the bill, and all that is needed now to finish the project is a donation of $6.00.

The Grayling Bowhunters will be hosts to the Northern Michigan Field Archers' Association this Sunday at their outdoor range three and a half miles north of Grayling on US-27. The tournament will be a 56 target field round, shooting in all classes.

Registration starts at 8:00 a. m. and shooting at 9:00 a. m. Coffee and rolls will be served in the morning and sandwiches, fruit and beverages at noon.

Although this is a sanctioned league shoot, all archers are welcome to shoot in the visitors' class.

The Grayling Bowhunters still have a few target butts left at $1.50 and $3.00. Contact Bob Smick.

Conservation Department's 4 Hour Course May Make Safer Hunters

FOUR HOURS OF INSTRUCTION

should make safer hunters out of Michigan young people under a new program set up by the Conservation Department. Some 500 voluntary instructors have been recruited to teach the rudiments of safety, survival and courtesy to those 17 years old and under before they take to the fields with a weapon in hand. The program has been a long time in coming.

Conservation groups asked for a plan of this type many years ago. The Department was willing, but had no money to finance such an undertaking.

Legislative attempts to provide a program failed. It was a joint effort by the department and interested citizens that finally produced the program — which is a start toward comprehensive instruction for all potential hunters before they get into the woods.

Conservation officers will train local outdoorsmen to teach the youngsters.

The lessons will come in this order:

First there will be an hour-long session devoted to the Game and Fish Protection laws and factors causing accidents. Then arms and ammunition—including bows and arrows—discussed. The third meeting will cover proper handling of firearms, and the course will wind up with hunter survival and ethics while in the field.

A written examination covering the entire course will also be given.

Cost of instructing the local instructors will be paid out of the Game and Fish Protection fund, which is kept solvent by the money paid for fishing and hunting license sales.

Early plans called for a program entirely separate from the Conservation Department's regular activities.

But shortages of funds, lack of personnel and numerous other factors made it far more expedient to start the program slowly by working through existing arrangements.

A possibility for the future is that the training for pre-hunters will be made mandatory by the Legislature.

SIXTY-SEVEN OF MICHIGAN'S 83 counties registered a population increase between the census of 1950 and that of 1960.

The 1,438,730 persons gained in these counties — mostly through internal growth, that is an excess of births over deaths—compared with a decrease of 15,314 in the 16 counties that declined, an analysis of figures by Michigan State University sociologist John F. Thaden indicated.

Southeast Michigan led the growth parade with Oakland the top county followed by Wayne and Macomb.

"Never in the history of this state have so many new residents been added in a single decade," Thaden said in a recent issue of an MSU publication.

The population growth by counties for the entire state averaged 22.3 per cent, Thaden said.

It meant Michigan has more people living within its borders than live in the countries of Israel, Tibet, Iceland, Liberia, Lebanon, Costa Rica and the principality of Monaco combined, he said.

The total population of the state, according to late census figures, was 7,795,182.

HIGHWAY SAFETY in a travel-conscious state like Michigan becomes more important with each new mile of road that is built.

The Highway Department says studies show the new freeways—four lane super-highways being constructed in a network throughout the state—are up to four times safer than the old roads they replaced.

Accident figures for old roads were compared with statistics gathered for a similar period, usually about a year, when new highways were opened.

Only rural areas of the highways were studied.

One comparison released by the Highway Department was for a period of 12 months on 156 miles of freeway, and for periods of three and six months on another 75 miles of new highway. A total of 212 miles of highway was compared with 224 miles of old highway which it replaced.

The study showed that 378 accidents caused six deaths among 229 casualties on the new roads. There were 1,691 accidents, 33 deaths and 331 casualties on the old roads.

That's a reduction of 78 per cent on accidents and 73 per cent on casualties.

The roads studied were in the following counties: Berrien, Van Buren, Kalamazoo, Calhoun, Livingston, Genesee, Monroe, Ionia and Bay.

Macomb's Grand Hotel

LOOKING MUCH like something out of a storybook, the fabulous Grand Hotel on Michigan's Mackinac Island, offers the comfort and the leisurely atmosphere of the 19th century—far from the sound of factory whistles and automobile horns.

We live today in a world of hustle and bustle. Everybody, they say is in a hurry. Our lives, for the most part, are regimented—8 to 5, or downtown on the 8:15, home again on the 5:30. We are so busy, the most of us, that we have little time to reflect upon what it would be like to live the leisurely life, to have nowhere to go and all the time in the world to get there. And, when vacation time rolls around, the most of us pile into the family buggy and set sail on a highway trip that is usually as hectic as the busy-busy world in which we live everyday.

Sometimes, however, we discover a monument to the past; some quiet and restful spot that is as yet unspoiled by all of the modern noise-makers and necessities, a place that is somewhat like a world of its own.

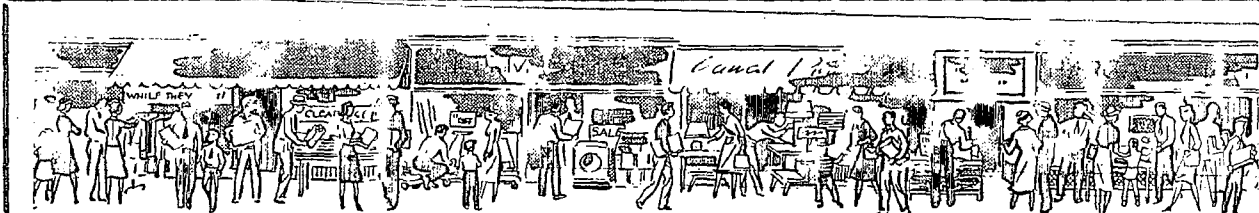

Such a spot is the Emerald of the Straits—Mackinac Island, famous Michigan summer resort. The air of the 19th century prevails and automobiles are not allowed on the island. Giant old houses stand guard on the heights, and the island is a peaceful, tranquil village.

One of the island's outstanding landmarks is the fabulous Grand Hotel, shown above, with its gleaming white columns visible far out in the Straits.

The hotel has the longest porch in the world and it is a promenade that commands a scene of grandeur. The slow tempo of boats plying the Straits and the rhythmic sound of horses hooves create an air of relaxation and a pleasant sense of change rarely found in these days of hurry and hustle.

The blockhouse at historic Old Fort Mackinac has for years supplied part of the charm which has made the island one of Michigan's favorite tourist attractions. It has been standing guard of the Straits of Mackinac since 1780.

Grayling, Michigan, Thursday, August 11, 1960

Oratory Won't Do It . . .

Many changes have taken place in the techniques of organized partisan politics. These, in large part, have been brought about by the enormous improvement in the instruments of communication, both verbal and visual.

One thing, however, seems immune to change. The orators at a convention of either of the great parties still deal only in the blackest of blacks and the whitest of whites with never a grey for contrast. The flamboyant style of the no-holds-barred approach, of which the late William Jennings Bryan was perhaps the greatest master, remain and are carried to millions via the merciful medium of television. Every vice is invariably attributed to the opposition; every virtue to one's own followers.

This, inevitably, happened at the Democratic convention. In the words of Herbert Lundy of the Portland Oregonian, if the speakers are to be believed, "it's a tossup between the Kremlin and the Eisenhower Administration for the first rank of villainy." And according to the keynoter, he added, "America is in a devil of a fix. While he allowed that the Communists have something to do with this, his burden of complaint is against the Republicans."

The Republican keynoter and the other speakers, needless to say, followed a similar course. They told us that a return to a Democratic Administration would result in all manner of grave troubles, and even disasters.

A good many observers, however, now doubt if the old-time oratory, with all its exaggerations and contradictions, is anywhere near as effective as it once was. The masses of voters, these observers think, are more sophisticated, than their predecessors, more critical, more thoughtful, and better workers. A highly experienced television commentator, for example, said that at the Democratic convention he found the majority of delegates far more serious in their attitudes than at any of the previous conventions he had attended. And, as the TV cameras moved about the huge auditorium, it was noticeable that numbers of delegates were paying little or no attention to the blood-and-thunder oratory.

Actually, it has been many years since party discipline was strong among the rank and file of voters. The straight ticket voter becomes rarer and rarer. More and more voters decide on the basis of their judgment of an individual's character and ability, rather than party. On both sides of the political fence in the more recent elections old stronghold after old stronghold has been successfully razed by the opposition.

Another overriding consideration exists this year. Foreign affairs and problems, for the most obvious of reasons, overshadow all other issues. There is every probability that the world situation will become still more tense and worrisome by the time November rolls around. If that is the case, the candidate who convinces the majority of voters that he is best able to deal with the Communist threat will win, party labels aside.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

August 12, 1937

The annual canoe carnival is now history, and while not a 100% success still the down-river trip proved to be the magnet that attracted and pleased the crowds. Saturday night was a program of water sports staged at the city park. A fly casting contest was split in two classes, accuracy and distance, and the Stephan family proved their prowess in both classes. John Stephan won first place in accuracy with Norval Stephan carrying off second prize. Lacey won the long distance casting event with John taking second place. Clare Madsen defeated three others in the 200 yard log rolling contest. Madsen didn't fare so well in the canoe tilting contest, teamed up with young Jack Redhead. Their canoe was sunk twice by Jerry Barger and Mike Gibbons. The feature event of the evening was the greased pole walking contest. After several futile attempts Raymond Andrews, 19, obtained the ticket at the end of a 15 foot pole, worth $5, in a desperate snatch before plunging into the water. George Haldeman, well-known because of his fight across the Atlantic in 1927 with the famous Ruth Elder, was a passenger down the AuSable Sunday with the carnival.

Margrethe Elizabeth Hanson became the bride of Harry Richard Snyder at four o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Michelson Memorial Church. Miss Hanson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Whitfelt Hanson of Grayling, and Mr. Snyder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snyder of Saginaw. The Rev. Edgar Flory performed the ceremony before an altar banked with green cedar branches and huge sprays of white delphinium, gladiolus and asters, tall white tapers completing the white motif. A reception at the Officers' Club, Lake Margrethe, followed. The bride is a graduate of Grayling High School and the Bennett School for Girls. She also studied for two years at the University of Michigan where she was a member of the Alpha Phi sorority. The groom is well and very favorably known in Saginaw as well as in Grayling, where he and his bride are very popular.

Miss Emma Lovely of Maple Forest, and Mr. Arthur Carrievau of Detroit were united in marriage Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Michelson Memorial Church, with the Rev. Edgar Flory officiating. The bride and groom had as their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pentrack of Detroit. Mrs. Carrievau is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lovely, and has made her home with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hovey in Maple Forest, since childhood. Mr. Carrievau, who is the son of Mrs. James Carrievau, Sr., of Detroit, at one time made his home in Grayling, and like his bride has many friends in this vicinity, all of whom wish them the best of happiness.

Mrs. Ernest Larsen entertained her nephew, Kerrmore Case of Saginaw, over Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Kraus is employed at the office of the bureau of Old Age Assistance in Roscommon.

Miss Lucille Larson has accepted a position in Adrian and expects to leave for that place Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Libcke of Gaylord visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Dunnham, over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson of Wayne spent last week vacationing at Wakeley Bridge, visiting relatives here.

Byron Randolph and family, who have been residing in Fontana, have returned to Grayling, owing to the plant where Mr. Randolph is employed being closed down.

Miss Mary Schumann started Monday in the Avalanche office. Office duties will keep her occupied.

Clyde Peterson, Frank Bennett and Carlyle Brown went to Mt. Pleasant Thursday night to see the Adamo-Franz fight and got there just as the fight started. Clyde turned around to speak to someone behind him and when he looked back the crowd was coming out. The fight was over, having lasted only 40 seconds. That was a tough break for Clyde.

Grayling was visited by a terrific electric storm Tuesday afternoon during which lightning played havoc in the county. Several homes were struck and electric lights and telephones put out of commission. At the Chris Hoeft and Alfred Charron homes plaster was torn from the walls and all electric appliances burned out. At the former home, fire ensued scorching a curtain on a window and blistering the paint on a door. The lightning also struck the Axel Larson, Peter Larson and Dan Owen homes, and at the latter place Clarence Larson of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owen of Flint, who were here for the Axel Larson funeral, were knocked down. It is also reported John Canfield, Jr. of Maple Forest lost a cow that was killed by lightning.

Mrs. Johanna Gorman returned Sunday from Ann Arbor where she had been taking a six months course in public health nursing, given on the University campus.

Miss Beverly Schable is ill at home with diphtheria. Her many friends are wishing her a speedy recovery. She is reported as doing very nicely.

L. Roberts and daughter Dorothy spent Sunday in Marquette. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Roberts and daughter Patricia who was dismissed from a Marquette hospital having recovered from an appendix operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hazen and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hazen of Detroit were guests of Judge and Mrs. Charles Moore Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. J. L. Martin will leave Saturday to attend the state convention of the American Legion in Detroit as a delegate from the Grayling Unit Legion Auxiliary.

The Misses Jerrine and Natalie Ann Peterson will leave Saturday for Lake Leelanau to spend a few weeks with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bromwell.

Altho Frank Deckrow didn't serve as one of the canoe guides during the carnival he was on the job ready to take the paddle if needed. He is 81 years of age and since before 1876 he has acted as a fishing and hunting guide in the AuSable River valley. Mr. Deckrow says that he built the first hunting and fishing cabin on the river. That was in 1876, and the log cabin was located near where the old Wakeley bridge was. He says he has caught as many as 50 grayling in the AuSable within a couple of hours. At that time there was almost no other species of trout.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph King and family last week were Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hudson and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Moore of Bellefontaine, Ohio, and Mrs. Jessie King of Onaway.

Mrs. Clyde Hendricks and son Roger left Thursday for Grand Lodge to attend a Seventh Day Adventist camp meeting, which lasts until next Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Ron Edsel and daughter Donna also left Thursday to attend the meeting. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Al Stephan and son Richard, and Mr. Hendricks drove down, leaving Richard with his brother Don and wife to spend the week and returning home themselves.

Oscar Charron entered Munson Hospital, Traverse City, Monday of last week, and underwent surgery on Saturday. For friends who wish to send a card, his room number is 238. Mrs. Charron's daughter, Mrs. Bonner Lintz of Columbus, Ohio, spent last week with Thursday, when Mr. Charron's granddaughter, Mrs. Lowe, came up from Otsego to stay overnight on Wednesday, and took Mrs. Lintz home with her for a visit. Mrs. Lintz left from there Saturday for her home in Ohio.

About Camp Roy - El

Miss Nancy Hoffman, daughter of the Albert Hoffmans returned home on Tuesday of last week after a very enjoyable week spent at Camp Roy-El, Gilbert Lodge 4-H camp near Traverse City. This was Nancy's third year at the camp. Camp Roy-El for handicapped children was founded by Mr. and Mrs. Roy-El. The former, a physical therapist at Munson Hospital, saw the need for outings for the handicapped in his profession and did something about it. Then too, there are volunteers, women and teenagers who each year drop other interests and concentrate on giving these children, some 100 with various physical handicaps, a great outing. The children are given boat rides and other excursions and instructed in special arts, crafts, and sports. Camp Roy-El is a most unusual and truly humanitarian effort. Because of its popularity a thousand handicapped children could be signed up every year, but because of the limited camp facilities, the applicants are carefully checked and the holiday provided for those in greatest need. The camp publishes a mimeographed newspaper containing comments, personal and otherwise concerning camp activities. It is called the "Handicapper". In this year's edition, Nancy was mentioned as having given a performance on talent night and also for her prowess with a bow and arrow and rifle. "who hits the target and bullseye from a wheel chair with great skill?" Nancy Hoffman. So well known has Camp Roy-El and its purpose become that the administration receives checks and other gifts from all over Michigan and some from outside the state.

Marines Offer Christmas And New Years At Home

The Marine Corps Recruiting Officer for this area has released the information that those who are interested in being home for the Christmas and New Years Holidays may now do so by enlisting during the period of August 20 to September 6. As an example, Sgt. Du Charme stated, that should you enlist on the 24th of August, your Recruit Training would start on the 29th of August. Recruit Training will then be over during the week of November 13. From Recruit Training, all Marines are then transferred to Camp Pendleton, California, for Advanced Combat Training, lasting from the 21st of November to the 18th of December. This would make your leave start on or about 18 December 1960, with an expiration date of 7 January 1961.

Since there are a large number of men who are taking advantage of this opportunity, you should contact the Marine Corps Recruiter as soon as possible. The address for all correspondence should be directed to: Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Post Office Building, Traverse City, Michigan.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

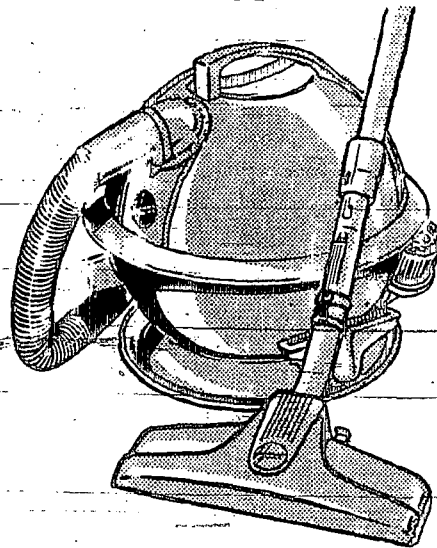

May I say a few words about the most dangerous spot I know in this town? — referring to the northeast corner of the intersection of US-27 and M-72, a spot of ground that seemingly belongs to the County Garage. What is more important, a plot of grass or human life to these officials?

Earlier this summer in trying to walk on the path here, the sprinkler would drench you; and now their vivid KEEP OFF THE GRASS signs stare at you both coming and going (I have respected them and walked on the highway). I was born in this town over 50 years ago and as far back as I can remember we had a path to walk on where the sidewalk ended. If the city can't afford a sidewalk at this point (our reality), is it LAWFUL to FORCE citizens (and taxpayers) to walk on the highway? I feel every time I walk there I am risking my life. I enjoy seeing a well-kept lawn but a human life is worth more than that. I see old folks from the Rest Home, children and adults walk to and from that section and wonder "will they make it?"

Everywhere children are taught SAFETY, yet here are forced into the path of DANGER. Everyone doesn't have a car at their disposal at all times, but our taxes support this city as well as those who do. I believe we have a MORAL and LAWFUL RIGHT to walk there.

Esther Hall,
314 Fulton St.
P. S. An out-of-town visitor suggested to me that we walk straight through the County Garage to evade this danger!!!

Michigan saves you tax dollars!

...Adopts new long-lasting DEEP SECTION Asphalt Pavement for Integrating U. S. Route 27 into Interstate Defense Highway System

Over 100 miles of Asphalt superhighway to be built in severe frost region in Northern Michigan, leading to Straits of Mackinac.

Cost conscious State Highway Department engineers have specified money-saving DEEP SECTION Asphalt pavement to combat damaging action of severe frosts.

THEY LAST LONGER! New DEEP SECTION design meets all Federal Standards for Interstate-Defense Highways and insures outstanding service life—designed for rugged durability. No sealing from de-icing salts. No brittle slab to crack—even under the heaviest traffic.

THEY RIDE SAFELY! Modern Asphalt pavements are engineered for maximum skid resistance—wet or dry. No sawed-in cross joints to thump wheels or jar steering. No dangerous lane joints to swerve your car. And, lane markings stand out clearly to guide you, day or night.

THEY COST LESS! They tax you least. Compared to concrete, deep strength Asphalt pavements provide more miles of wider roads for less money by the efficient use of local aggregates. The savings from use of deep strength design often run as much as $100,000 per mile over concrete designed for comparable traffic and service life. These savings can be used to build more local roads—resulting in a better balanced, modern, over-all road system.
